

Christina Salgado

Director of Education
Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre

Christina Salgado, director of education and community engagement at Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre, oversees all in-school, accessibility, and community programming. Prior to joining PBT, Christina served as Early Learning Coordinator at New Jersey Community Development Corporation in Paterson, NJ. She has also served as a curriculum developer and researcher for Head Start, integrating creative movement and motor development techniques, through Columbia University's Teachers College. She has been selected to present her insights on childhood creative movement and motor skill development at various conferences. She holds a Master's degree from Columbia University in Movement Science with a specialization in Motor Learning and Control. She completed her undergraduate degree in Dance and completed a minor in Early Childhood Special Education at George Mason University. Christina is excited to be a part of Vibrant Pittsburgh's Next Generation Council as we strive to make Pittsburgh a place that is equitable and accessible to all.

