

Marcus Thompson

Relationship Manager, Private Client Group PNC

Marcus S. Thompson is a Relationship Manager with PNC's Private Client Group. He is responsible for growing and servicing the financial relationship and experience of PNC's affluent retail banking customers. During his time with PNC, he has held several positions essential to strengthening the client experience and PNC brand amongst the bank's diversified customer base. Additionally, he supports the bank's success internally and furthers strategic D&I initiatives through his work with the African-American and Young Professional (PREP), Employee Business Resources Groups (EBRG).

Beyond PNC, Marcus is also actively engaged in the City of Pittsburgh and Greater Southwestern PA Region. He currently serves on the Board of Directors, as board treasurer, for Ward Home Inc.; a nonprofit that supports and enables foster teens in the region to become productive citizens beyond adoption and into adulthood. He is a member of Petra International Ministries and oversees the production and broadcasting of weekly live streamed services, as a host and production coordinator. All in addition to volunteering with a number of other community and service organizations within in the region. In 2015, he was recognized as a Western Pennsylvania Rising Star by Get Involved, Inc. and the Pittsburgh Service Summit. A Hampton University graduate and a Richmond, VA native; Marcus has settled into Pittsburgh and calls the "Steel City" home.
